
Farmer . . . Father of Flier Recommends Victory Bonds to You . . .

GEORGE A. MACLEAN is well known in the community of Lewis, where he has lived all his life on a farm settled by his father in 1861. Mr. MacLean has always taken an interest in community and provincial affairs. He is a Justice of the Peace and Commissioner of Deeds, and an Elder in the Caledonia Presbyterian Church.

His younger son, Squadron Leader J. Angus MacLean, D.F.C., returned home in April after a year and a half active service. He took part in the 1,000-plane raid over Cologne in May, 1942. Later he was shot down in enemy territory and posted as missing, but, although seriously injured, escaped capture and returned to England. It was for brilliant work on this operation that he received the D.F.C. Squadron Leader Angus MacLean is now O.C. at an R.C.A.F. test and development station at Rockcliffe, Ontario.

George MacLean, the father of this distinguished airman, urges all to buy Victory Bonds. He says:

"As a loyal British subject, ardently desiring the continuation of British traditions I urge the buying of Victory Bonds to the limit of the individual capacity. They not only provide the money with which to buy the equipment necessary to win the war, but they are the best and safest investment a person can possibly make. Accumulate Bonds now, and be ready to participate in post war opportunities."
